

Graduating medical school during the pandemic with extensive training in Anesthesiology, Camille Romeu, M.D. has been focused on primary care, managing wellness centers across FL, along with Phase I-III clinical research. Her work during COVID-19 is now published in the Frontier Molecular Journal of Medicine, being one of the first physicians in FL to navigate large volume testing treating over 15,000 patients for SARS-CoV-2. Currently also serving as a Research Scientist at Keralty Hospital.

